Hi All,

Kathleen Sgamma and Karen Pratt just called to tell me that industry will not be prepared to give input on the CTGs, which have not yet published in the Federal Register and for which the comment period has not begun. She said industry will need months to digest the four new rules that "EPA has just thrown at them." I asked whether industry would have any ideas and/or input for control strategies that are appropriate, practical and cost-effective for us to consider in a potential rulemaking in the Uinta Basin, i.e. what makes the most sense there. Kathleen said that for industry to give EPA that kind of specific input next Thursday would be premature. She also mentioned the comprehensive emission inventory effort currently underway, and how the timing of this meeting is premature.

Fyi,

Jody
